Senators McKay and Bennion launched into an elaborate defense of the reform school and its management, and Senator Lawrence declared his opinion that no evidence was produced before the commission which should cast any reflections on the trustees as unworthy of the appointment. Each of the three senators argued that as the trustees' management of the institution had been made an issue, and as they were exonerated, nothing less than unanimous confirmation by the senate was due them.

President Allison then left the chair, and called upon Senator Lawrence to preside.

Time to Speak Out.

Mr. Wallace, the teacher, had done with condemned youths exactly what the average school teacher does with school children who have not been sent to be confined in an institution. Was that a scandal? Why cannot Representative Spry show a disposition to be fair? The truth is that he worked for the exclusion of testimony which could be construed as favorable to the could be construed as favorable to the control of the contro be construed as favorable to the

JUDGES DECIDE TO CALL SPECIAL GRAND JURY

Action Is Precipitated by Recent Rumors Regarding Practice of Polygamy in the City.

Moral Conditions Will Also Be Considered by the Body Which Will Meet Next Month.

The "public offenses alleged to have been committed" refer to the charges recently made of the practice of polygamy in this city and county. The "various abuses alleged to exist within this jurisdiction" refer to moral conditions, including the Victoria alley expose made some weeks ago by The Herald, and the open violation of the ordinances regarding Sunday saloon closing and the protection given to gambling houses.

Shortly after The Herald exposed the deplorable conditions existing in some parts of the city, a number of promi-nent citizens signed a petition asking the three judges of the district court to the three judges of the district court to call a special grand jury to investigate the matter and examine into the affairs of the county and city offices.

The petition could not be taken up and passed upon at that time by the judges, and it was permitted to lie until a few days ago, when Judge Morse returned from his term of court in Summit and Tooele counties. The inability of the three judges to hold a joint conference at any one time during the past week or ten days, prevented the action of yesterday being taken sooner than it was.

GEORGE WESTERVELT,

County Attorney,

For several days past the three judges have had under serious consideration the advisability of calling a special grand jury in response to the citizens' petition for the same, and to investigate the polygamy charges which have filled the air during the past two or three results. past two or three months.

Will Investigate Immorality.

The existence of immorality in various parts of the city, in the very heart of the business section, was first brought to the attention of the judiciary and the propole by The Hardistance of the first propole by The Hardistance of the propole of th brought to the attention of the judiciary and the people by The Herald. The incentive was the revolting Ryan murder at 47 Victoria alley, when a colored woman, Mary Jane Smith, it is alleged, administered a fatal dose of poison to a man named Ryan for the purpose of robbing him. The police scoffed at the theory of murder until The Herald reporters produced such evidence as to cause the officers to awaken and ferret out the crime. Then came the stories of shocking conditions, which were followed by an expose of the flagrant violation of the anti-gambling ordinances.

But yesterday morning Judge Stewart made his appearance in court after a few days' indisposition, and immediately after he left the beuch, the three judges met, discussed the petition, and decided to call a special grand jury for the April term.

Just when the jury will be summoned to appear in court, be sworn and take up their investigation, depends upon District Attorney Dennis C. Elchnor. The jury is to be placed in his charge. As its deliberations will occupy all his time, the jury will not, probably, be called into court until after that official has concluded his criminal cases. The last one has been set for trial early in next month.

Under the statutes providing for the calling of a grand jury, the names must be drawn from the jury box within the next month.
